Habitat for Humanity
Habitat for Humanity is an international non-profit organization whose goal is to eliminate substandard housing worldwide. Habitat was founded in 1976 by Millard Fuller as an ecumenical housing ministry. The UW-Madison campus chapter of Habitat is non-denominational and we accept members of all faiths.

A campus chapter of Habitat has three main goals: to fundraise, to build, and to educate others about poverty housing. The UW-Madison chapter of Habitat has been around since 1993. We are currently working on our tenth student-built house.

How Does Habitat Work?
Habitat constructs simple, decent homes for people in need. Families are chosen based on need and their ability to pay. Each family is required to helps build their house or other Habitat homes for a certain number of "sweat equity" hours. Families also make interest-free mortgage payments on their homes which help fund the building of additional Habitat homes.
